

You will need to join the Usergroup for this class to have access to the information you will need. Print this page to walk you through the steps.

NOTE: This assumes you are using the subsilver2 default style for the discussion board. If you have changed this style, the steps will be the same, but the screens will look different. If this paragraph doesn't make sense to you, you should be set. ☺

FIRST: Go to <http://sexualwholeness.com/forums> and log in using your username and password.

Overview	Usergroups enable board admins to better administer users. By default you will be placed in a specific group, this is your default group. This group defines how you may appear to other users, for example your username colouration, avatar, rank, etc. Depending on whether the administrator allows it you may be allowed to change your default group. You may also be placed in or allowed to join other groups. Some groups may give you additional permissions to view content or increase your capabilities in other areas.

LAST: Make sure you have it set to “join selected” (it’s the default) and click “Submit”. It will take a couple days for someone to verify you have registered for the class and then they will activate your membership in the group. This will give you access to the class forum. Thanks for using the Discussion Board.
